

Contributors

Costas Douzinas is Professor of Law and Head of the School of Law at Birkbeck College, University of London. His recent books include Postmodern Jurisprudence: The Law of Text in the Texts of Law (London, 1993), The Legality of the Contigent: Postmodernity, Politics, Critical legal Studies (London, 1994), Justice Mis-carried: Ethics, Aesthetics and the Law (London, 1994), The Logos of the Nomos (Athens, 1996), Law and the Image (London, 1999) and The End of Human Rights (London, 2000).

Michael Kokonis is Assistant Professor in the Department of English at Aristotle University and teaches courses in contemporary American Fiction and Cinema Studies. His research focuses primarily on issues of narratology, his main area of interest being modernist and postmodernist fiction. He has published various articles on Literary and Film Theory and Criticism.

Dr. Alison McMahon is the Director of the English-language M.A. Program in Film and Television Studies at the University of Amsterdam, where she teaches cinema studies and new media. She has long work experience in the field of film and multimedia production, including the NYCTA interactive HAZMAT training project, the HandsON™ interactive, and is currently CEO of Hyperserial Intl., a Dutch company that produces interactive TV serials. She has written extensively on technical film and multimedia issues, and recently a series on interactive architecture for ARCHIS (www.archis.org). Her book, Branching Characters, Branching Plots: An Interactive Sriptwriter's Manual, is forthcoming.

Nicos Panagiotopoulos is Assistant Professor of Art Photography at the Department of Photography of the Athens Institute of Technology. Co-founder of the Athens Photographic Centre and advisor to the Ministry of Culture on matters regarding the development and the profession of photography. He has exhibited his work in many national and international shows, and has published widely on various aspects of contemporary photography.

Hercules Papaioannou has studied Physics at Aristotle University of Thessaloniki and Photography at New York University, while he is a doctorate candidate at the Department of Journalism and Mass Communication of Thessaloniki. He works as a photography instructor and has exhibited his work in personal and group shows.

Gregory Paschalidis is Assistant Professor of Cultural Studies at the Department of Journalism and Mass Communication, Aristotle University of Thessaloniki. He is the author of The Poetics of Autobiography (Athens, 1993), Issues in the Study of Modern Culture and Art (Patra, 2000) and has published widely on literary theory, mass media and cultural studies. His current research interests are on photography, visual culture and cultural identities.

Yannis Scarpelos is Lecturer at Panteion University (Department of Communication and Mass Media) of Athens. He teaches "Visual Communication" and "New Media". His book Terra Virtualis, was published in Greece in October 1999.

Susana Vega-Gonzalez is Lecturer in English at the University of Oviedo, Spain. She has received grants as Visiting Scholar at the Universities of Cornell, Pennsylvania and Texas at Austin. Her publications include articles on contemporary African American women writers and she is the author of the book Mundos Mágicos: la otra realidad en la narrativa de autoras afroamericanas (Oviedo, 2000).

Lia Yoka studied History at the Aristotle University of Thessaloniki, and Art History in Munich and Norwich. Her MA examined the relationship between aesthetics and politics in totalitarianism, her PhD (University of East Anglia) examined the religious and intellectual culture of early-twentieth century Greece. She has published on modern Greek history, European museum policies, contemporary art and cultural theory. She is currently teaching art history at the University of Thessaly.