

ON RESERVE COLLECTION

The On Reserve Collection is part of the Main Collection. It consists of books that the teaching staff of the department consider useful for students to consult during the courses taught in each semester. These books are placed on the selves between the reading room and the IT facilities of the library, and are grouped on the basis of their classification number. They bear a yellow sticker on their spine in order to be easily distinguished from the other books of the Main Collection. Dictionaries and Norton Anthologies are always on reserve.

Library users can view on reserve bibliographies through the Aristotle University Online Public Access Catalogue \(OPAC\), following the hyperlink "Course Reserves" of the home page. Searching by course name and code, instructor and department is available. In addition, a printed catalogue with the on reserve bibliographies of Winter and Spring semester of the current academic year is also available at the Reference Desk. Books that belong to this collection are indicated in the catalogue as "3-hour loan" for the bibliographies of undergraduate courses and "3-day loan" for the bibliographies of the postgraduate courses.

More information about the School of English Library collections can be found in the following address:

<http://www.enl.auth.gr/lib/collectsE.html>