

THESSALONIKI COGNITIVE LINGUISTICS RESEARCH GROUP

CALL FOR PARTICIPATION 2020-2021

Thessaloniki Cognitive Linguistics Research Group has been organized at the School of English Language and Literature, Aristotle University of Thessaloniki.

It is supervised by Professor Angeliki Athanasiadou and is addressed to scholars, doctoral and/or MA students. Meetings take place twice a month.

The aim of the Research Group is to:

- a. Discuss and comment on the latest publications related to Figurative Thought and Language (FTL) based on an interdisciplinary approach with contributions from the fields of Cognitive Linguistics, Cognitive Psycholinguistics, Social and Cultural studies.
- b. Provide the group members with feedback on their MA and PhD theses and/or their papers and conference presentations.
- c. Organize symposia or thematic sessions in symposia / conferences.
- d. Participate in research projects.

Students (MA, PhD), graduates and colleagues who are interested in the CL framework are welcome to attend after visiting our webpage so that they familiarize themselves with the academic interests and activities of the Research Group before they request to participate.

Please send your name, institution and e-mail address to Giota Syrpa (syrpag@yahoo.com) and Despoina Felekidou (despoinafelekidou@yahoo.gr) by September 30th at the latest.

Note that old members should confirm their participation as well.

Visit our webpage for upcoming news and events.